maintain law and order. It also ends the verbal communication made to General Sir Arthur Paget to the officers at the Carragh camp, which is to their resignation, and which the government strenuously was the result of a misunderstanding.

The correspondence between the war office and the army officers in Ireland was made public in the shape of an official communication to the house of parliament.

The war office was informed early in December of the possibility of resignations of officers in case the Ulster situation came to a head. In consequence of this information Colonel John Seeley, secretary of state for war, interviewed the general officers in command and explained to them that an officer of the British army was compelled to obey orders to shoot only in case the rebels were responsible or under the circumstances." General Paget telegraphed to the war office March 20, that all the officers of the Fifth Royal Irish Lancers stationed in Dublin had resigned, with the exception of two. He said he feared that the same conditions prevailed among the officers of the Sixteenth Royal Lancers, stationed at the barracks.

The evening General Paget telephoned to the war office that the brigadier-general and 57 officers of the Third cavalry brigade at Carragh "prefer to accept dismissal if they are ordered to the north." The war office replied to General Paget:

"You are authorized to suspend from duty any senior officers who have tendered their resignations or in any other manner have disputed your authority. The resignations of all officers should be refused."

The war office also said that other officers were being sent to relieve Brigadier General Hubert Gough, commander of the Third cavalry brigade, and the commanding officers of the Fifth and Sixteenth lancers, who were ordered to proceed to London.

Brigadier General Gough, in reporting the feeling of his brigade, as the result of a communication from the war office, conveyed to him verbally by General Paget, said:

"The officers of the brigade are unanimous in the opinion that further information is essential before they should be called on at such short notice to make decisions so vitally affecting their whole future, and especially that a clear definition should be given of the terms 'duty as ordered,' and 'active operations' in Ireland."

If such duty consists of the maintenance of order and the protection of property, all officers, including myself, are prepared to carry out that duty. If, however, the duty involves the initiation of active military operations against Ulster, 57 officers would respectfully and under protest prefer to resign." After this interview with Colonel Seeley, Brigadier Gough wrote to the war office:

"One of the first questions asked by our officers was 'In the event of the present home rule bill becoming law, can we be called on to enforce it in Ulster—under the expression of maintaining law and order?' This question will be made quite clear, I believe, when the bill is renewed in the House of Commons."

In reply Brigadier General Gough received a letter, initiated by Colonel Seeley, as secretary for war, and by Field Marshal Sir John French, authorizing him to inform the officers:

The army council is satisfied that the incident which has arisen in regard to our resignations was due to a misunderstanding.

The letter concluded that it is the duty of soldiers to obey the commands for the protection of life and property and in support of the civil power in the event of disturbances, and the army council is glad that there never has been and never will be any desire to disobey such orders. It continues:

"The government must certain right to use all the forces of the crown in the ordinary execution of their duty, but it has no intention whatever of taking advantage of this right to crush opposition to the policy or the principles of the home rule bill."

Violent Kick on Favors Shown Mme. Caillaux

Other Women Prisoners in St. Lazare Given Heated Cells as Result of Public Protest.

By Leased Wire to Evening Herald.

Paris, March 25.—Violent public and official protest against the favors shown to Madame Caillaux, the mother of the woman who was given a heated cell in the St. Lazare prison had their effect today when Madame Witte, who is accused of a murderous attack on her husband was transferred to a heated cell and given a maid to attend her. Madame Caillaux, after the ordeal of her long examination by Henri Bourassa, the investigating magistrate, yesterday, passed a quiet day in the prison tower.

The inquiry into the connection of former cabinet ministers with the postponement of the trial of Jean Rochette, the assassin, grows more and more complicated. The abstracts of the testimony supplied to the press appear to be far from complete.

Official reports of the investigation by the committee of the chamber of deputies allude to a recent attack of Joseph Caillaux, former minister of finance as well as on former Premiers Briand and Barthou. No mention is made of these in the official version.

KOETTERS TRIAL FOR MURDER OF MRS. KRATZ UNDER WAY IN CHICAGO

By Leased Wire to Evening Herald.

Chicago, March 25.—John B. Koettters on trial here charged with the murder of Mrs. Emma Kraft of Cincinnati in a Chicago hotel, rented a safety deposit box in Boston January 23, two months after the date of the murder, according to testimony today. J. J. Schewner, manager of a Boston safety deposit vault, said that Koettters rented a box under the name of John Nieman. Schewner said that detectives with a search warrant entered the box March 6 last but found it empty.

Koettters became a fugitive while in Boston. J. F. O'Brien testified, "He obtained a license in the name of Johnnie Man," said O'Brien, who conducts a chauffeur school in Boston. "I gave Koettters 24 lessons and dismissed him with a letter of recommendation to him," said O'Brien. Koettters honesty and integrity were without question."

This letter was found among Koettters effects when he was arrested. Charles Lauk, who was clerk of the hotel in which Mrs. Kraft was killed, identified Koettters as having registered on the day of the murder. The state charged that Koettters buried Mrs. Kraft in an unmarked grave with promises of marriage and struck her down with a hammer and robbed her. Mrs. Kraft had sold some real estate in Cincinnati for more than $2,000 before coming here, it has been testified. Koettters was arrested in San Francisco after a nation wide search.

Mrs. Gunness of Murder Farm Is 'Found' Again

Woman who Conducted Deadly Agricultural Institution Near La Porte, Indiana, May be in Canada.

By Leased Wire to Evening Herald.

LaPorte, Ind., March 25.—For the fifth time the authorities of this country have been persuaded to appropriate railroad cars for the transportation of a man who has been "found." Chet Cochran, a marshal when the Gunness murder farm sensation was being exploited in 1908, left LaPorte today for Neville's Sask., where the northwest mounted police have under surveillance a woman.

According to the reports from Canada, the woman was recognized as Mrs. Gunness by a man who went to school with the latter in Norway some twenty-five or thirty years ago. Four bodies taken from the ruins of the Gunness home were declared to be those of Mrs. Gunness and her three children. But the defense of Bay Lamphere, convicted of setting the place on fire, raised the theory that Mrs. Gunness herself set fire to the place and then escaped.

The export and manufacturing types of tobacco are grown mainly in Kentucky, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Tennessee, West Virginia, southern Ohio and southeastern Indiana. Best methods for the culture of the various types are explained in the new bulletin.

INSECT ENEMIES OF TOBACCO

One of the most troublesome and expensive features of tobacco culture, particularly in the southern districts, is the control of numerous insects, which if not controlled would oftentimes completely destroy the commercial value of the crop. Among the commercial value of tobacco is influenced to a greater degree by particular soil and climatic conditions than is that of almost any other crop. This has caused the industry to become highly specialized and the trade looks regularly to well-defined areas for the various types of leaf it requires.
